All floats should be on Thurston Avenue next to Shatzel Hall by 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

The new voting system which will be used does not require a student to vote for both king and queen. However, in voting for either one, two votes must be cast for two different individuals.

Beta Pi Theta Hears Five French Themes

The second meeting of the Beta Phi Theta will be held Wednesday, Oct. 23, at 7:30 p.m. At this time the five pledges of the 11 new candidates for membership will read their themes. To be eligible for this society, a person must have had at least one year of college French and maintained a B average in all his subjects.

The officers this year are: Betty Paxton, president; Elsie Lodge, who was recently elected in the absence of Marcel Williams, vice secretary; Marita Snyder, treasurer; and Ellen Treece, sentinel.

SCF Recognition Was Sunday Theme

Recognition and dedication of SCF members was made at the worship service last Sunday evening in the auditorium.

The newly organized male quartet sang "Night Shadows Falling." Quartet members are Jim Sprunger, Jack Smith, Paul Butler, and Roy Jackson.

A talk, "Self Examination," was given by Mary Bellerjeau, SCF assistant.

Kathleen Fisher played organ music during the service.

Play Tryouts Set for Tonight

Tryouts for "The Invaders" will be held in the auditorium tonight at 6:30. The tryouts are open to any student and there are nine men and four women to be cast.

The world premiere of the play will be presented here December 4 through 7, under the direction of Frederick G. Walsh.

The play was written by academy award winner Robert Finch, a close friend of Mr. Walsh. The plot concerns a post war campus conflict between science and the humanities.

Mr. Finch won his academy award last year for the one-act play "The Desert Shall Rejoice," which was made into the movie "Star in the Night."

Angel Street Tickets On Sale In Well Friday, October 25

Tickets for "Angel Street" will be available in the Well Friday, October 25 from 1 to 4 p.m.; Saturday, October 26 from 9 to 11 a.m.; and every afternoon next week from 1 to 4 o'clock.

Adult tickets for other than students will be sold at the box office for 50 cents including tax.

Students must present their Ac cards and five cents (federal tax) for which they will receive reserved seat checks and tax receipts. Both the seat check and the tax receipt must be presented to gain admission to the University production.

"Angel Street" will have its initial showing October 30 and will run for four days.

Doreen Stouffer and William Prentice will play the lead roles of Mr. and Mrs. Manningham. Sgt. Rough will be played by Lee Miesle, Elizabeth by Penny Cloos, and Nancy by Jean Pugh Roberts.

Frederick G. Walsh is directing the production and Ralph Klein will act as business manager.

Technical crews for "Angel Street" have been announced by Harold Obee, technical director. Students who will direct the technical details of the play include Bob Burns, stage manager; Dave Thompson, chief electrician; John Nagy, chief carpenter; Dorothy Albright, make-up; Betty Ruth Krabill, costuming; Jack Wilhelm, business manager; Carol Mulqueeny, head usher. Ralph Klein is the faculty business adviser.

Work has already begun on building the set for the play and Mr. Obee again indicates his desire to locate Victorian furniture with which to furnish the set. Properties from the Victorian period are also needed.

Western Reserve Host For Russian Tour

YWCA groups from colleges all over Ohio will be represented at the Russian Acquaintance tour to be held at Western Reserve University in Cleveland November 2.

A World Acquaintance tour is held every year in Cleveland and this year's theme on Russia will be carried out in many ways.

The first big event of the program is a service at St. Theodosius Russian Orthodox church at 10 a.m., which will be followed by a Russian luncheon at the University. Leonid Rubincsek, a native of Russia, will speak.

Any B. G. student who is interested in going on this tour should consult Jim Stoner in the SCF office before October 26 concerning details of expense and transportation.

Five Buildings From Camp Perry Will be Moved To B. G. Soon

cheats, beware

A resolution regarding cheating was passed at a meeting of the Executive Committee held Wednesday, October 16.

"A student guilty of cheating will be placed on probation on the first offense and on the second offense such a student will be dropped from the class with a grade of F."

It is the responsibility of the instructor to report the student to the department head. The department head will present the facts to the dean of the student's college for review of the case.

The University's application for five surplus buildings at Camp Perry has been approved by Federal Works Agency according to an announcement made by President F. J. Prout.

Dr. Prout expects the buildings to be dismantled, shipped, and reconstructed on the campus in the next few months.

The announcement was considered the first step in the realization of needs for more buildings to handle the large student demand here.

The largest of the buildings is a mess hall in which 1,000 may be seated. It will be placed on the vacant lot just north of the Nest when it is brought here. The building is 220 feet long and 169 feet wide.

A small theatre building, capacity for 350 people, will be brought here. It will be used for speech classroom purposes and will be erected on the vacant lot at the corner of Thurston and Court streets, across from Shatzel Hall.

Other Buildings

Three small buildings will furnish 11 classrooms and will be erected on Ridge street, just east of the Woman's building. All of the buildings are frame and the University plans to eventually veneer them with a brick surface.

F. Eugene Beatty, Assistant Registrar, has been in charge of handling the details of the applications.

The new buildings will assist greatly in relieving much of the present congestion caused by the presence here of 3946 students, the largest enrollment in the history of the campus.

Colleges Double Totals

The governor revealed that Camp Perry would not be held in reserve to care for overflow students, since all were being accommodated in regular college courses.

Ohio's 54 colleges and Universities have successfully passed the crisis in caring for a record breaking enrollment of 125,000 students for the fall term.

The pre-war record enrollment, reached in 1940, was 53,000.

Veteran Interviews Postponed For Week

Mr. Jordan, veterans' counselor or is asking all Public Law 346 veterans who wish to see him this week to postpone their interviews with him until next week since he will be exceptionally busy this week holding conferences with Public Law 16 veterans.

Klein and Bunn Explain Constitution

Background on the present constitution of Student Council was offered in the council session Monday by John W. Bunn, registrar who served as advisor when the constitution was adopted, and Ralph J. Klein, instructor in speech who served as president of Student Council at that time.

Both speakers emphasized the powers which Student Council has on paper and does not exercise and each argued against any substantial change in the constitution.

Champion Typist Will Give Demonstration

The world's champion typist, Miss Stella Pajunas of Cleveland, will give a free public demonstration of the Electromatic typewriter at 7 tonight in the auditorium.

Her appearance is sponsored by Quill Type, business education club at the University. As a student at John Hay high school in Cleveland, she won the Ohio amateur typing award at Bowling Green in 1937.

Miss Pajunas in Chicago last June won the world's professional women's professional, amateur, and novice championships. Using an Electromatic typewriter she scored 140 net words a minute.

The record is 149 words a minute, established in 1941 by Margaret Hama of Brooklyn, who was second in Chicago.

Miss Pajunas and her sister, Mary, the runnerup in two contests at Chicago, and Miss Hama are employees of International Business Machines Corp.

Veterans Book Tony Pastor

Tony Pastor will play here December 7 in the Men's Gym as 600 of the 700 tickets have been sold. The remaining 100 tickets are being held by the Veterans Association for those veterans whose subsistence checks haven't arrived yet. They will be placed on sale after the first of November.

According to Fred Fay, president of the Veterans Association, "the rapid sale of tickets shows that there is ample spirit for 'Name Band' dances on this campus." In the three days that the tickets were on sale, all those available were sold. With this enthusiastic response of the student body the Veterans Association is planning to bring other name bands to the campus.

Dance Tickets

Tickets for the dance are now at the printers, and will be distributed the latter part of this week. All receipts must be exchanged for these tickets in order to comply with the tax requirements of the Federal government. No receipts will be accepted at the door for this reason.

Chaperones for the dance will be Prof. and Mrs. R. H. Whittaker, Prof. and Mrs. M. L. Miltonburger, and Prof. and Mrs. Elden T. Smith. Guests of honor will include Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Prout, Dean Audrey Kenyon Wilder, Dean and Mrs. A. B. Conklin, and Dean and Mrs. K. H. McFall.

Committee members for the dance are Fred Fay, business manager, Don Roberts, publicity, and Bill Froundfelder, social chairman.

Printing of the second edition of Eyas, student literary magazine, will be done by the Wood County Republican, Glenna Smith, editor, has announced.

The magazine will be printed on a better grade of paper and will contain more pages than the introductory issue had last year.

November 22 has been set by the editors as the deadline for student contributions to the magazine. Material is now being accepted in poetry, essay, fiction and photography. The top three entries in each division and a number of honorable mentions will be presented in the next issue which is scheduled to go on sale at the end of the semester.

Photography contestants are requested to have their prints made on gloss finishes as they are more adaptable to printing.

Contributions should be taken to the English office on the main floor of the Library where a box has been provided for entries.

Any student is eligible to submit entries regardless of the class or college in which he may be enrolled.

Subsistence Checks Come Thru On Time

Even though the number of veterans at the University has increased greatly, there are comparatively few complaints regarding veterans receiving their subsistence checks late, according to J. W. Jordan, veterans' counselor. Mr. Jordan stated "the checks are coming through regularly and if they are a little late it is undoubtedly due to the fact that certificates of eligibility were submitted late to the school."

IN OUR MERRY OLDSMOBILE...

Out for a merry jaunt in their merry oldsmobile, Max Minnich, Jack Freitas, Russ Maples and Wayne Bloker spent the Sunday afternoon riding in the country. The boys felt the urge to get away from it all, especially women and studies...

...show some action

Lack of interest among students in the affairs of the world is a hollow criticism in view of the many crusaders who have adopted this or that "cause." Naive but sincere youths roamed the nation this summer from Northwestern in Jeeps to propagandize for one scheme of world federation. Others held a meeting at historic Concord and adopted a creed varying by a few subtle points from the former plan and are speaking just as vigorously for their version of one world.

Hardly an Eastern campus can be found which has no International Relations Club which really does things like sending lobbyists to the Capitol instead of idle wordplay. For years the pinkish Yipsels and scarlet young commies, under a multitude of deceptive banners, have found responsive cords in undergraduates from farm, factory, and as often from bourgeois environments. Locals of the United States Student Assembly, despite constitutional bars, vary in scarlet from point to point.

Yet to Bowling Green students every one of these groups is probably only a nameplate. Our nearest approaches to public spirited groups are Emerson Literary and the public affairs group within Student Christian Fellowship. Combined membership of both these groups is roughly one-fortieth of the total enrollment. Such a gross neglect of the vital questions upon which psychological security would seem to depend may reveal that Bowling Green's fertile plains are inhospitable to this seed. More likely not.

When noted speakers on foreign affairs appear here in the assembly series they address quite a large proportion of the students and are eagerly questioned. When controversial issues emerge in classroom discussions they are usually thrashed out in a fairly intelligent manner as is expected of college students. Informal conversation may also turn to the daily headlines reporting our lack of progress as readily as to the subject matter of studies being pursued.

Turning this idle passive interest into vital active participation is the crux of the matter. Perhaps it may be done through lectures to be sponsored by the SCF public affairs group. No one can complain about the SCF public affairs group. No one can complain about the SCF monopoly and expect to be listened to if that group should expand into this area by default of others supposedly interested in such a development. On the other hand a separate organization would be all to the good since it would search out interested students who are not attracted to SCF.

On the Wooster Campus, a new club has been formed by the flying students. The club is called the Flying Scots and will soon be incorporated. Each member will be a stock holder.

In a poll taken recently at Ohio State, of the 1,800 new students in the Arts College, 66.9 per cent of the students said they had fields of study chosen, and another 17.3 per cent said they intend to choose soon between two or three definite fields. Approximately four per cent of the students quizzed said they were aiming at a liberal education in which a choice of major is not of prime importance.

Veterans' Village at Toledo University will soon have the complete proverbial House that Jack built. A veteran Jack House, being too late on the application list for a university trailer, built a house 12 by 18 feet in its over all measurement. The house boasts of three room "luxury."

Statistics show that Yale graduates have 1.3 children. Vassar graduates have 1.7 children. Which proves that women have more children than men.

Dr. J. F. Cuber of the sociology department of Ohio State University will have an article on marriage featured in the October issue of the McCall Magazine. Dr. Cuber was one of the first sociologists in this part of the United States to do research in marriage relationships.

A visiting clergyman conducting exercises at Hobart College used the six letters forming the name of the institution for the headings of the subdivisions of his extended address—"H" for Holiness, "O" for Obedience, "B" for Beneficence, "A" for Adoration, "R" for Righteousness, "T" for Triumph. He gave fifteen to twenty minutes to every subject.

As they made their weary way for the exit, one student said to another:

"Darned good thing we are not attending the Massachusetts Institute of Technology!"

Bowling Green's picturesque Falcon's Nest is a popular spot where students and faculty spend their leisure hours. The Nest was erected in 1941, and was opened in October by Homecoming Queen Gerry Bircher.

Rustic Falcon's Nest Records Five Years Of Campus Life

This is the story of our student union and how it came to be—Bowling Green's widely known Falcon's Nest—the symbol of informal relaxation to every Bee Gee student.

Plans for the construction of the building were made in the spring of 1941, just five years ago. Student Council decided that students should have a place of their own where they could take it easy and drink cokes between classes. This suggestion was presented to the Board of Trustees by President Frank J. Prout and they agreed unanimously to build a student union.

Ground was broken on May 1 and the building was completed six months later despite scarcity of the desired materials. The present site was chosen because it is the exact center and heart of the campus; University tennis courts were formerly located there.

Opening Ceremonies

A student poll agreed that the building should be called the Falcon's Nest. Gerry Bircher, Homecoming Queen that year, officially opened the Nest in October by cutting the ribbon across the entrance of the building. She then led a procession to the south balcony.

Certain students have created a serious problem at the Falcon's Nest by such gross misconduct as dumping dishes on the floor in order to clear tables for card games. This was discussed at Student Council meeting Monday evening and severe disciplinary measures including actual closing of the student union were suggested as quite possible. A word to the wary if unwise should be sufficient.

where Dr. Prout presented the Nest to the student body represented by Roger Gifford, president of the Council. The keys were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Don Patterson, students who were the first managers of the Nest.

Rustic Style

Chestnut wormwood paneling from West Virginia carries the rustic motif of the Nest inside. In the main room is a large fireplace against the south wall; not a dummy but a real fireplace used in winter to help keep the building warm. Smaller fireplaces are also found in the student and faculty rooms on either side of the recently expanded kitchen.

Novel use of wagonwheels as chandeliers and a split rail fence south of the building are added rustic features of the Nest. One of the two small apartments on the second floor is now used as a business office and the other provides quarters for several men students.

Expansion Planned

Since the enrollment of the University has nearly doubled this year the need for expanding the Nest is even greater than before. Plans for enlarging the main room, for example, will be put into effect as soon as building materials become available.

Frosh Finds Way To Fill Mail Box

Why is mail box 111 in Kohl Hall always filled with mail?

Why?—Because the four coeds in that room have been busily cutting coupons out of all the magazines and sending them in. They've received so far everything from Gerber's Baby Food to a pamphlet for expectant mothers.

Something has been worrying them though. A corsetier took one of the girls seriously and is going to make a personal visit to fit her.

Residents of 111 are Elizabeth Arnoldt, Helen Black, Joanne Haskins, and Joan Hayward.

dial and doodle

If you doodle between dialing and getting the number you want, your artistic inclinations may help obtain better telephone service for the campus. But don't just doodle anywhere—today and Friday a nicely printed form will be found by each telephone and the more honest tally marks on each form the greater becomes the chance that we will get untangled from the overload on the local and long-distance wires.

Council Fails To Fill Obligations; Representative Students Charge

by Hank Lewis

Opinions regarding Student Council, how it should function, what duties it should assume and how its members should be elected are varied and many. This has been shown by contacts made with several students on the campus, and it is believed by this writer that an over-all picture on the criticism of the council can be summed up as follows: Council does not fulfill its obligations to the student body; is not representative of the student populace; and does not use its powers. Its members should be elected by open campaigning, and representation should be by the classes: The council is too large; too many campus organizations are represented; and the council should be more democratic.

Music Lovers

To Hear Opera

'Listening Hour'

You music lovers can come out of your holes now and hunt up your long hair because a series of symphony Listening Hours is being planned by the Social Committee especially for you and your buddies.

Friday night from 7:30 to 8:15, room 300 of the Practical Arts building will swell with the recorded music of Mozart's Symphony in D Major and Tchaikovsky's Concerto in D Major (Op. 35).

Plans for future programs include opera hours, request programs, a Gilbert and Sullivan night, and possibly a light opera hour.

Robert Warrick, a Liberal Arts junior, will be on hand to answer any questions about the program and, incidentally, to change the records being furnished by the music department.

Dormitories interested in having little private parties can hold Listening Hours in their houses by contacting Mr. Warrick, mentioning a date, suggesting a program, and furnishing the victrola.

Kohl Frosh Don PJ's For False Fire Bell

Anything to relieve the monotony at Kohl, we always say.

Last Thursday evening at 9:50 the fire alarm rang. Immediately raincoats were thrown over the p'jays, tommie coats, and other sleeping apparel, shoes were hastily found and put on, and the mechanics of a fire drill were observed, as women throughout the building prepared to brave the elements. (If you can't remember, it was very wet outside due to a slight rain.)

All was for nought, however, as it was just a false alarm!

Lowry Sparks Falcons To Victory Over Kent

Led by Richard "Red" Lowry, Bee Gee halfback who lived up to all expectations, the Bowling Green Falcons spoiled Kent State's homecoming last Saturday by trouncing the heretofore unbeaten Golden Flashes 13-0 on the visitor's gridiron. The Flashes, severely handicapped by "slippery fingers" were humbled before an estimated 9000 fans by a Falcon varsity

Cincinnati Tops Falcon Harriers

Coach Sam Cooper and his hard-working Falcon cross-country squad tasted the bitter dregs of their second defeat in three meets as they bowed to a strong Cincinnati squad Saturday by a score of 19 to 44.

The Falcon harriers ran under adverse conditions as they traversed a course laid out over the hilliest land in Ohio. The course was dry and the weather cool but the Bowling Green thin clads have had no chance to workout on hills and the ordeal proved a little too much for them. Another disadvantage was that the Falcons had only a short one hour interval between their noon meal and the start of the meet.

Bob Petrie, running a fine race in 22:35.8, led the field most of the way to finish a close second to Hopper of Cincinnati who made the four miles in 22:22.6. Next Bowling Green man to cross the finish line was Lynn Johns, ninth, closely followed by Morris, who finished tenth although he lost a shoe near the two mile mark. Other Falcon harriers who competed were Johnson, Grubaugh, Albury, and Flanders.

Next Saturday Coach Sam Cooper and his boys travel to Detroit to meet Wayne University.

Predixions

Last week we felt "a little bruised," this week we staggered to our feet and very quietly admit that we were knocked in the teeth by the outcome of Saturday's football games. We only made nine out of 16 right this week, for an average of .562. Our season's average is .673 or 35 out of 52.

When the laughter subsides, we would like to prophesy that it will be:

Alabama over Kentucky
Army over Duke
Bowling Green over Canisius
Penn State over Colgate
Columbia over Dartmouth
Cornell over Princeton
Georgia Tech over Auburn
Michigan over Illinois

B. G. Grid Mentor For Six Years Leads First Peacetime Squad

Robert H. (Bob) Whittaker is beginning his sixth year as football mentor of Bowling Green State University this year. During this time his teams have won 27 games, lost 12, and tied 3. The Falcons have scored 714 points to their opponents 380.

He coached at Sandusky

Coach Whittaker

High School 11 years before coming to the University. In those years his teams won 87 games, lost 20, and tied two, totaling 2635 points as against 639 for their opponents. From 1932 to 1936 the Sandusky eleven won 38 consecutive games.

This season opened with a 7-0 upset at the hands of Central Michigan. But Whittaker's men came back with a 13-0 victory over Ball State and played a terrific defense that stopped Miami University with only a bare touchdown margin. Last week Kent State went down 13-0, making it two up in a tough season.

A 1929 graduate of Miami University, Whittaker played halfback, ran dashes, and established a new college record in the javelin throw.

He has taken graduate work at Ohio State and Bowling Green. Although a wealth of material is available Coach Whittaker is gloomy about his team's prospects. This has been his consistent policy in spite of the fact that his teams have made an impressive record to date.

Jargon of Sports---Kent or Bust

by Bill Sherman
Sports Editor

Hitting the trail in the "wee hours" of the morning, approximately 800 stalwart Bee Gee fans made their way to Kent to see the Falcons trip the Golden Flashes, 13-0, in the Kent homecoming game. On the way we passed several Bowling Green cars headed in the same direction, a parade of which made a noisy entrance into the University grounds there, much to the amusement of the home crowd. Kent placards in return made the bold and, as it turned out, rash statement that "Bowling looks Green." Little did they know . . .

Not So Sure, Huh?

It was a perfect day for football and a huge crowd turned out for the game. We were quite surprised to find that the loyal fans of Kent were not quite so sure their Flashes were going to remain unbeaten.

Off We Go . . .

Fred Fay (be sure and read his account of the game) and myself went looking for the press box, and when we found it debated as to whether to use it or the "ground floor" stands, for the "box" was composed of two platforms stuck (and I mean stuck) 50 feet in the air, with only a canvas sheet around both to keep the wind out. It wasn't the platforms themselves that made us skeptical but the wobbly ladder we were forced to climb to reach a level of safety. We finally decided to suffer the consequences, and nervously mounted to our vantage point.

Durn That Whittaker

Just before game-time we found that the Falcon numbers had been changed on their uniforms, so I spent the remainder of the game frantically trying to locate who was carrying the ball for Canisius' success this year has been attributed to the fact that the team has an abundance of good players returning. Besides having a crop of experienced linemen the Griffins are blessed with a fine array of backs.

Leading the list of backfield stars is Tom Kretz, a fullback. In the Canisius game with Alliance College, Kretz raced 90 yards to paydirt. He tops his team in scoring, and in most of the games has been the Griffins "sparkplug."

Other dangerous men off the Canisius T and single-wing formations are left halfback Darrell Braatz and right halfback Howard Willis.

Canisius' Passing Dangerous
Featured in the Griffins aerial attack are a pair of towering flankers—Bob Schaus and Al Choury. Both of these 6'1" pass snatchers have been very effective in the passes completed department. Canisius will no doubt rely much on their passing game with the Bee Gees.

The fact that Bowling Green will outweigh the Buffalo eleven on the line tends to give no comparative strength of the two. Both teams thus far have excellent defensive records. The Bee Gees line looked particularly good in the Miami game two weeks ago.

Heading the Griffins is coach Earl Brown, a former All-American from Notre Dame, and previous to his appointment at Canisius, head coach at both Harvard and Dartmouth.

Calendar Postponed For Table Tennis

The Table Tennis Club will have to postpone its calendar due to lack of space, since the men's basketball team has taken over the Woman's Gym until the other gym is ready for use.

The club will probably begin its activities soon after Christmas vacation, so watch the Bee Gee News for further announcements.

Dehner Art Exhibit Stimulates Interest

by Grayce Scholt
Eyes Art Editor

Once again University students have the opportunity of viewing Wait Dehner's paintings in the Library lobby. Much can be said about them both pro and con. Hundreds of students are attracted to them every day, and there is no doubt the show has stimulated much interest in art at Bowling Green.

Many of the paintings are sentimental and strike up an emotional response in the viewer. Perhaps this is one fault of Mr. Dehner's. Too often he is so concerned with the literal transcription of nature in a painting that he seems to overlook many of the principles of form and design.

In Whitehouse, Ohio; House Across the Tracks this is extremely evident. Here we have a scene that depicts realism and immediately sets up an emotional response. In this kind of thinking the painting is effective. But from an analytical standpoint the picture breaks apart in the middle. The red trees contrast with the green trees, and the whole separates into two parts. There are no slow changes of colors. The painting lacks unity of movement.

Best in Group

Native Puerto Rico works quite well. The black is handled effectively and makes it my choice for the best painting in the group. Most of the Mexican paintings, while extremely interesting as to subject matter, seem cluttered with no definite focal point. There is no effective transition from object to object. The parts are isolated. The group generally lacks structural design.

Of the two balcony scenes (Puerto Rico; Plazo and Ship Basin and Blackout at San Juan) the latter seems to be more effective though less colorful. In the first painting the color seems spotty and without planned arrangement of shapes. There is no definite eye movement. The effect is jumbled and not clear cut. While they add subject interest, neither of the balcony rails in either picture contribute anything to the painting. They tend to cut off the lower part of the canvas and do not work as part of the whole.

But generally the paintings are colorful and greatly interesting geographically. The subject matter is exceedingly pertinent in these days of close South American relations.

Mr. Dehner is represented by the Kraushaar Galleries of New York, and he is resident artist here at Bowling Green.
